Hank McEwan Rides For TV From Virginia City To San Francisco Bay

PORTERVILLE — From Virginia City to San Francisco bay — that was the horseback ride Hank McEwan made last week for television, not for a super western spectacular, but for a 30-second western commercial for Glad-Bags.

Hank, who is the head man at the Porterville Horseshoeing school, reports that actual riding time for the 261-mile trip was about 26 hours. Seven horses were used and two other riders participated, horses and riders being shuttled by van and car to relay points along the ride.

Idea of the commercial is that sandwiches placed in plastic Glad-Bags at Virginia City, then delivered by Pony Express to San Francisco bay, arrived fresh and tasty. A notary public sealed the sandwiches in the bags at Virginia City, travelled with the riders, (by car, of course) opened the bags on the shore of the bay, and certified that the same sandwiches were in the same bags, and that the trip had actually been made by horseback.

Enroute, 5,200 feet of TV film was shot by several cameramen — that's a mile of film, pa'dner — and cost to produce the commercial ran about $62,000. It is planned to use only nine seconds of the Pony Express ride film in the finished commercial.

Directing the episode was Jerry Gould, of the advertising firm of Leo

PROPOSED AGRICULTURAL ZONE IN COUNTY READY FOR HEARINGS

VISALIA — The issue of zoning in agricultural areas of Tulare county will again be presented for consideration when the Tulare County Planning commission holds three public hearings on a new, proposed "AE" exclusive agricultural zone.

First of the public hearings is set for the Orosi Memorial building in Orosi, at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, June 20.

Second hearing is scheduled at the Terra Bella Memorial building in Terra Bella, 7:30 p.m.; Thursday, July 6.

Third hearing will be held at the Tulare County Farm Bureau Assembly hall in Visalia, 7:30 p.m., Thursday, July 20.

Agricultural zoning became a subject of controversy earlier this year when the Tulare County Planning commission presented a proposed ordinance.

Following strong protests by farmers, the Tulare county board of supervisors "backed off," and Board Chairman Charles Cummings named a committee to study agricultural zoning and come up with recommendations.

The new, proposed agricultural zone is based on the recommendations of this committee, which included: Don Trueblood, chairman, and at the time of appointment president of the Tulare County Cattle-men's association; Hil Van Houten, president of the Tulare County Farm

Fishing Season "Opened" On Tule Reservation For Period Of Month

PORTERVILLE — For the first time in several years, trout season has been "opened" to the public on the Tule River Indian reservation, with the Tule River Tribal council issuing $15.00 permits for a 30-day period, June 10-July 10. Money from permits goes to the council.

Some 5,000 German Brown trout, ranging in size from 12 to 14 inches, were brought in from the federal fish hatchery at Anderson for planting in the south fork of the Tule river that flows through the reservation.

To be planted today are another 2,500 of the big fish; then, prior to closing of the special season, another 2,500.

And on opening day, last Saturday, fishing was excellent, although response to the special season with the permit fee was not as great as had been expected.

About 20 reservation Indians assisted with the initial planting, in some instances carrying fish into

SAN JUAN DAY SET JUNE 24

Editorial Comment

SO, AMERICA IS IMPERFECT

So, justice does not always prevail in America.
So, some folks have more than other folks.
So, people do discriminate against other people.
So, American Democracy is an imperfect governmental system.

True. All of it true.

So, we'll obtain justice by threatening the government, by threatening the people. We'll follow through by finding an incident to set off the mob, to start shooting, to start burning, to start looting, to start screaming, "black power". Then someone screams, "white power", and Justice tightens the band across her eyes.

So, to get equal, those who have less will take it away from those who have more — at the point of a gun.

So, because we are discriminated against, we discriminate, protesting loudly that we are discriminated against, but not questioning our discrimination against others.

So, because Democracy is imperfect, we will abuse Democracy; malign it, manipulate it, curse its symbols, use the privilege of Democracy to attempt to destroy it.

True. All too often, true.

So, justice does prevail in America more often than in most countries.

So, more folks in America have more than most folks in most countries.

So, people discriminate against people in America less than people discriminate against people in most countries.

So, Democracy is the worst government in the world — except all the rest.

True.

So, let those who think otherwise change what they believe are injustices, change economic inequalities, change discrimination, change the imperfections of government by use of the legal methods of implementation of change built into Democracy.

Let those who turn to threats, to violence, to gun-point action, to attempted overthrow of Democracy, take a good, long look at the inside of a jail — or let them take a last look at America from the deck of a ship — a ship headed to whatever land they think is greater than the imperfect America.

FARM PROGRAM PAY LIMITS IS KILLED

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The House of Representatives in a bi-partisan vote has overwhelmingly defeated a motion to impose a limitation of payments to growers participating in farm programs. The amendment to impose drastic limitations was offered by Congressman Paul Findley, Republican of Illinois. It was vigorously opposed in speeches by Congressman John Rhodes, Republican of Arizona, and by Congressman Robert Mathias, Republican of Visalia. The proposal lacked major support from either party.

GET CAR OFF FREEWAY IF TIRE GOES FLAT

SACRAMENTO — Do you know what to do if you have a flat tire while driving on a freeway?

"Don't just stop and change that tire," Captain B. R. SMITH of the California Highway patrol, says. "If you do, you may place yourself in great danger and may even cause other accidents."

"The proper procedure to follow is to move your car to a place of safety before stopping. This may mean ruining a tire, but it may also mean saving your life."

"The shoulder of the freeway, if there is one, usually is a safe stopping place, but if there is no shoulder you should leave the freeway before stopping. It is highly dangerous to stop in the center divider strip because it is too close to the high speed traffic lane for safety."

The Patrol commander noted that the same procedure applies in the event of an accident and the car is still capable of being driven. Leaving a car in the flow of traffic after an accident creates congestion and congestion creates accidents, he says.

CARL ELDER, all decked out for the Porterville College graduation ceremony Sunday evening, received a standing ovation from students when he was introduced by Ted Cornell, chairman of the board of Porterville high school and college. Elder will retire at the end of the school year, after serving as director of athletics at Porterville college, and previous to that, as Porterville high school football coach. Elder was honored in recent weeks at parties given by athletes that he coached at Woodlake high school and at Sacramento, before coming into the Porterville school system. He is a graduate of Porterville schools and USC. With his wife he plans to do some traveling, starting in July.

PRODUCERS COTTON OIL COMPANY IS ACQUIRED BY BANGOR PUNTA

FRESNO — Bangor Punta corporation and Producers Cotton Oil company have announced agreement has been reached looking toward the acquisition of Producers by Bangor Punta.

The plan, which has been approved in principal by both boards of directors, calls for each share of Producers to receive $18 principal amount of a new issue of Bangor Punta's 5 3/4% subordinated sinking fund collateralized debentures, and $7 in cash and in market value of Bangor Punta's 5 1/2% convertible subordinated debentures.

The common stock of Bangor Punta and the subordinated debentures are presently traded on the New York Stock Exchange. Exchange listing of the new debentures also will be requested.

The proposal also provides that Producers would continue to operate as a separate corporation with no change in management.

Producers, a large land owner in California and Arizona, is an integrated agricultural-agribusiness enterprise whose principal activities are the raising and processing of cotton and other agricultural commodities and the production of edible oils.

Bangor Punta is a diversified corporation headquartered in New York City with offices and plants throughout the country. Among its major activities are the Bangor Aroostook Railroad, Smith & Wesson firearms, manufacture of motorized and sailing pleasure boats, conversion and sale of bonded and knitted fabrics, manufacture of foundry, processing and materials handling equipment, manufacture and distribution of emblematic jewelry, and the distribution of commercial and industrial refrigeration equipment. The firm has annual sales of approximately $150 million.

Chicken Eggs Rank Third In Ag. Production

LOS ANGELES — Chicken eggs valued at $229 million nosed out cotton for third place in gross income ranking among California's leading agricultural commodities in 1966.

Records of the California Crop & Livestock Reporting Service indicated that this is the first time in history that this has happened, according to the Council of California Growers.

Cotton income dropped from $331 million in 1965 to $195.8 million in 1966—due to a 100,000-acre cut-back in government acreage allotments, and generally poorer yields.

Actually, cotton slipped from third place to fifth last year. Hay, mostly alfalfa, jumped into fourth spot with $202 million estimated on-the-farm value.

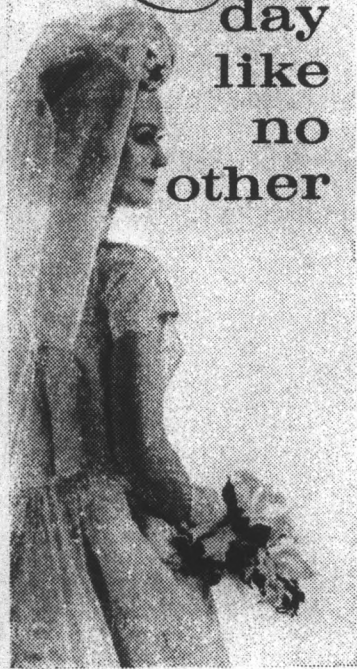

Cattle and calves still hold the No. 1 position with sales totaling $711 million. In second place is the dairy industry with $422 million in gross income in 1966.

Egg production in California doubled in the past 10 years—from 4 billion in 1957 to 8 billion in 1966.

California ranks no. 1 in egg production in the U.S., accounting for 12 per cent of the total.

Cotton stands are reported as good in the San Joaquin valley considering the late plantings caused by April rains.

Cotton Growers Advised To Check For Aphid And Cutworm Infestations

by Alan G. George
Farm Advisor

VISALIA - With cotton planted four to five weeks later than normal, growers should carefully check for heavy aphid populations in their fields. With such a late start, nothing should interrupt continuous growth of the seedling cotton plants.

In most years the aphid is not dangerous and control is generally not justified. However, in a year such as this, persistent populations may cause damage and result in reduced growth and production.

Aphid colonies can become dense and look extremely injurious, but normally are not. Generally, this insect does not complete its development on cotton. However, after careful observation when it is found no reduction in population has taken place after several days, due to weather or beneficial insects, then chemical control may be justified with late planted cotton.

Natural control is very good during the early season and usually follow an aphid buildup. Ladybird beetle eggs, somelarva and adults are appearing in most cotton fields at this time. However, in some cases, the ladybird beetle, syrphid fly larva and predacious wasps are not always doing the job.

Growers should also carefully observe any freshly chewed up cotton plants. Cutworm damage has been very severe in some fields and is still causing concern. Generally, these plants will be chewed off at the ground level.

Growers observing freshly cut off plants should dig several inches under the soil surface to see if cutworms are present. If any are found which might damage stand, the use of chemical control or a bait is suggested. Too long a delay in treating may result in a complete loss of stand.

Further information on chemicals and rates sug-

Plum forecast in California, at 92,000 tons this season, is three per cent below last year.

During the first quarter of 1967, traffic deaths totalled 10,900 in the United States.

Agriculture Survey Is Being Made Covering Crops, Livestock, Labor

SACRAMENTO - Farmers throughout California will soon be visited by representatives of the Crop and Livestock Reporting service, California department of agriculture, to obtain current information on crops, livestock, and farm labor.

Begun May 29 and continuing through the first part of June, special enumerators are calling upon those who farm land in 950 scientifically selected areas or segments of California. Results of the area sample survey are expected to give a good representative picture of California agriculture and will supplement mail surveys regularly conducted by the Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

Survey results for California as well as all other states will be totaled to give an estimate for the nation. This information will be released on July 11.

SCHOOL IS OUT DRIVE WITH CARE

Here's your chance to give kids a break, a good brake! Don't wait until it's too late. School is out, vacation has started and children are playing everywhere. Have those brakes inspected; in fact, have the whole car inspected. Don't take chances! Be an alert driver. Drive safely and a safe car.

Here Are Some Ways You Can Help To Keep Our Streets Safe For Our Children

1. Be sure that your car is mechanically safe. Check brakes, steering, lights, wheel balance and alignment, tires at frequent intervals.
2. Watch out for caution signs and adhere strictly to the speed restrictions in these areas.
3. Watch for children darting out into the street. In fact, watch out for children EVERYWHERE and ALL the time!
4. Remember: Children are unpredictable. Their safety is YOUR responsibility. When in doubt...STOP!

NEWS RELEASE:

It is a known fact, that almost all accidents occur as a result of driver negligence and carelessness.

Now that school is out there will be many children around the city throughout the day.

We, as motorists must constantly be aware of the fact that children do not always look before entering the street. As motorists we have to always be alert and out think any situation that may arise when we are behind the wheel.

Help us protect our youth, our leaders of tomorrow, by driving safely, obeying all traffic laws and expecting the unlikely to happen at all times.

PORTERVILLE POLICE DEPARTMENT

Thomas D. Longman

CHIEF OF POLICE

FROM YOUR SCHOOL OFFICIALS

Now that schools are closing for the summer and there will be more young people in circulation, during hours when they would normally be in school, it is important for the public to be extremely aware of the need for safe driving. In fact, all of the rules of safety should be observed for the purpose of protecting the lives of both the young and the old.

This community has always been safety conscious, so it should keep up the good work and preserve an outstanding record.

I am happy to commend the Rockwell organization for its effort to enlist the aid of the public in the interest of safety.

Charles W. Tuttlebrook

TOM VAN GRONINGEN

The national safety council tells us that most accidents on the road are avoidable. If you are a typical driver, you probably have driven your car for years without an accident. But it could happen to you.

With the children on the streets and vacations now in progress, accidents are more likely than ever. So I wish to make a personal plea to every vehicle driver to drive safely and protect the lives of our children.

OUR TOWN

By Ruth Loyd

Roger Anderson borrowed Bob Ettner's nice blue Corvette for his get away. No Luv, Roger hadn't robbed a bank, he had just been married. The new bride and groom rushed through a shower of rice and jumped into the Corvette. Roger gunned the motor and away they went. About halfway down the block Roger shifted into second, but the hard way. Now Bob's blue Corvette has a new kind of gear. No teeth. Bob is recovering nicely.

I hadn't seen Bob for a long time. The last time I saw him he was lying in bed with a big gash in his forehead. His head had been laid wide open by a baseball bat. I thought he was dead, and I was thinking of fainting, but his calm mother knew better and just cleaned him up and got him ready for the doctor. I don't know if Jeannette ever knew what a lesson in efficiency she taught me that day. That lesson came in very handy when I had a few emergencies myself. I hadn't seen Bob since his baseball accident. Now he is a wheel in the Forest Service. Something fancy about watersheds over at Kernville. All those little sheds full of water at the top of mountains. How nice and neat.

I received a wonderful letter from my favorite sailer aboard the U.S.S. Seminole off the coast of Viet Nam. He writes the best letters. They don't censor the letters like they used to. When I got letters from my nice husband they looked as if some termites with square teeth had chewed them up. The war seems especially tragic when you know someone in the middle of it.

I know I shouldn't write about the same people so much, but this is important, and anyway I've learned to spell her name. If your child doesn't understand the new math, and I don't either, Rosita Marks is going to tutor this summer in math and reading. If you are going to have to be tutored this summer, you might as well enjoy it. Of course Rosita isn't so hot when it comes to advanced algebra or differential calculus, but with the silly new math, this she knows, and can teach.

On Memorial Day the Daughters of the War of 1812 came to OUR TOWN to honor one of the soldiers who is buried here. I have heard the Star Spangled Banner played many times, but never so beautifully as OUR HIGH SCHOOL BAND played it on Memorial day. At the end of the ceremony Mel Gosage and Pete Anderson stood at opposite sides of the cemetery and echoed Taps to each other. It was lovely. Perfect. My mind wasn't on the War of 1812, it was on the parents of the boys who have died in the War of 1967. Eleven boys from OUR TOWN.

Whatever it was you didn't get planted this spring now is your golden opportunity. All you have to do is find a spot where the gophers or the ants have loosened the soil and start planting. If they haven't provided you with good tillable ground we do have gypsite and other soil conditioners ideally suited for producing better working conditions.

If you would prefer to be rid of gophers and ants and take your chances on the soil texture we prescribe such things as poison, gopher bombs, traps, chlordane, cyanogas and the like. Different people and different animals seem to prefer some of these over others but with lots of money and even more persistence we feel you can find the answer.

For your own enjoyment, or to send your friends, there are many potted plants in bloom now - Violets, Chrysanthemums, Gloxinia, Astilbe, combination pots, and fancy leaved Caladiums. These are almost as pretty as a new hat and can be planted outside later for continued pleasure. If you wish they can be gift wrapped and delivered. All you have to do is call and tell us where, when, and what for.

We are still open on Sundays so drop by anytime for garden information, instant shade trees, or complaints about the weather.

Nearly 1,500 Students Are Enrolled For Summer Session At High School

PORTERVILLE - A total of 1,462 students have enrolled in the 1967 summer session at Porterville Union High School.

In making the announcement, Summer Session Principal L.E. Grimm states that another 400 students would attend the session to take the Driver Training course.

Grimm said the session will start on Friday, June 16, and run through July 28 with a holiday on July 4. Classes will be in session from 7:55 A.M. to 12:05 P.M. daily.

He announced that busses will run from Springville, Ducor-Terra Bella, and Poplar-Woodville during the summer session.

Enrollment cards will be distributed Friday morning before school at the administration building.

Grimm said 48 classroom teachers have been hired to teach during the six week session and another six will teach driver training only. Thirteen of the teachers who teach in the classroom will also teach driver training during the afternoon, he stated.

Further information on the summer session can be obtained by calling 784-7000.

the sections of stream that could not be reached by vehicle.

In general charge was Bob Santos, chairman of the Tribal council; assisting was Madison B. Knowles, forest officer in charge on the reservation, Bureau of Indian Affairs.

Plantings have been made, or will be made, generally from the upper line of the reservation through the valley area of the Indian settlement.

Technically, streams on the reservation are posted against public fishing; the $15.00 permit is a trespass permit that allows fishermen to wet their lines in the posted streams.

Permit fishermen on the reservation must have a regular California fishing license; limit is 10 fish.

Patrolmen from the Tribal council are working the streams during the open season permit period.

PHOTOGRAPHERS WILL ATTEND HAWAIIAN MEET

Both will have prints displayed at the 15th annual Western States Print exhibit at the Ala Moana center in Honolulu.

LESS GOVERNMENT IN AGRICULTURE

SAN FRANCISCO - Earl Coke, Secretary of Agriculture of the State of California, outlined his hopes for a diminishing role for state government in agriculture, and praised the California wine industry as an example of a good relationship between the state and an industry. He spoke at the concluding luncheon of the recent 33rd Annual Meeting of Wine Institute in San Francisco.

Burnett company, Chicago and Hollywood, the same firm that made the now-famous "rather fight than switch" cigarette commercial.

Hank got into the act through the Pacific Coast Equestrian Research farm, at Badger, this farm furnishing the horses, vans and trailers. Hank was in charge of shoeing the horses, with the problem being that most of the riding was done on hard highways, and to make the time schedule, it was necessary to ride at nothing less than a fast trot.

Special shoes were used over rubber pads to cushion the horses' feet and to provide footing on the highways. And Hank obviously knew what he was doing, since no horse went lame, and since only one shoe was lost on the trip.

About two weeks were required to get the ride set up and the horses ready. Hank rode the first leg out of Virginia City—the horses were ready but the cameras were not, so things got off to a bit of a late start.

The party stayed overnight in the Mother Lode country, then took off early the next morning.

"Being a Pony Express rider isn't all glamour," Hank says. "We had to use old-style cavalry saddles, we were detoured along the way for special scenes - crossing snow banks, sliding down gullies, riding up rivers, changing horses on the run - and even though I wore heavy pants and chaps, my legs were raw. And the weather had everything - rain, snow, sleet and hot sun."

The other two riders were former horseshoeing students of Hank's - Stan Moser, of Chula Vista, now competing as an RCA cowboy; and Bruce Scott, originally of Pottstown, Pennsylvania.

On the scene also was a top executive of Union Carbide, the firm that owns Glad-Bags. He had never seen the old west; he knew that the ride could not be made; but when the riders roared through Oakland and pulled up on the shore of San Francisco bay for the final scene in which a noted food editor opened the Glad-Bag full of sandwiches, he was ready to wine and dine everyone. Which he did.

"Cameramen, and advertising people were amazed at what we did," Hank says. "At one point Stan ran his horse down a shallow stream, spraying water in all directions. Everyone thought this was great, in fact they applauded when the scene was finished. Later, Stan told me he used to do that every day when he was a kid - just for fun."

And the amazement carried through the horseshoeing job.

"I didn't tell anyone that I hadn't developed some fantastic new method of shoeing horses," Hank says, "but really old-time blacksmiths were putting hard metal into soft shoes for footing, and rubber pads under the shoes to cushion shock back in the last century."

The Glad-Bag commercial is scheduled for release sometime in August.

So watch your TV screen. That Pony Express rider you see roaring out of Virginia City will be none other than Hank McEwan, of Porterville.

LEGION POSTS WILL INSTALL SATURDAY NITE

PORTERVILLE - Newly elected officers of the American Legion posts and Auxiliaries of Porterville and Terra Bella will be installed Saturday night in ceremonies at the Porterville Legion hall. Webb as first vice commander; Edward S. Flory as second vice commander; Hughe C. Williams as adjutant; Frank Pratt as historian; Dewey S. Jackson as judge-advocate; John H. Herrell as chaplain; Sam L. Creeks as finance officer; and Kelly Zimmerman as sergeant-at-arms.

A seven member board of directors will consist of Short, Williams, Guy Rutherford, Herrell, Elmer Robinson, John Beyerbach and Lloyd Whistance.

Delegates to the Department of California convention to be held in San Diego June 25-30 are Edgar Isch, Arthur M. Falconer, H.E. Salisbury, Jackson, Webb and H. J. Jackson.

Installation ceremonies will begin at 7:30 P.M. and will be open to the public. All Legionnaires and other veterans are urged to attend.

Time Out

By Davis Harp

YOU DON'T KNOW WHERE YOU'LL BE IN A MONTH, MAYBE VIETNAM

The famed California sun was hard to find. The day was gray and dull. Sweater weather in June. It was a big weekend in Los Angeles. I mean, the Angels were in town against league-leading Detroit. Disneyland was just blocks away and the show at Melodyland sounded promising.

The Marines had landed in Anaheim. They came, wrinkled after the bus ride from Camp Pendleton, in groups of three or four and even when they weren't in uniform you could pick them out of the crowd. He has a certain attitude which marks him, the young Marine. He has spent 10 weeks in the hell of Marine Corps boot camp. His every move was watched and he has learned that mistakes are intolerable. He has learned that orders are to be obeyed, swiftly and without debate. As he learned that he could live in that Spartan world his confidence grew and he became brash and tough. He became a Marine.

At seven o'clock in the morning three Marines splashed and swam in the pool at the motel. They laughed, rough-housed, and swore at each other in the cool, quiet morning. Next month, or the month after that they would be asked to kill and perhaps die in a strange and distant land, a land where men have devised endless ways to take your life. Next month or the month after, life will be much more grim. But today, this dim southern California day, was made for splashing in a pool. It was a day made for trying to start a conversation with the two girls with New York license plates, and having cups of steaming hot coffee with a ham and eggs and hash browns breakfast at Denny's.

Liberty expires at 2000 hours on Sundays. That's not a lot of time. Just enough time to spend the afternoon strolling at Disneyland, girl-watching and soaking up a little of the civilian life. Eating pogy bait and smoking anytime you feel like instead of when the sargent wants you to.

At about three o'clock the exodus begins. Pendleton bound busses are crowded with sleeping Marines who are heading back to the business of war.

It was a good weekend for the Marines. Two bits says they will be right back next weekend, 'cause you can't tell where you're going to be in a month or two.

When this photograph was taken last month, snow depth at the 10,600-foot elevation lake was recorded at 155 inches, or nearly 13 feet. Water content of the snow was computed at a record 65 inches. Edison expects some part of the heavy snowpack this year to carry over as "perpetual snow."

AGRICULTURAL ZONE

Bureau; Elvin Mankins, Tulare County Agricultural commissioner.

Sheldon Jackson, director of the Agricultural Extension service in Tulare county; Ed Olson, chairman of the Tulare County Planning commission; Robert Bream, rancher; Roy Lowe, agribusiness; and Don Hillman, and Ray Muller, members of the Tulare county board of supervisors.

In general the "AE" exclusive agricultural zone seeks to protect agricultural operations from invasion by other types of activities while, at the same time, placing the fewest possible restrictions on agricultural operations, and operations directly related to agriculture.

"This zone is proposed for adoption as part of the zoning ordinance of Tulare county, and, once adopted, will be available for application to specific areas," according to Olson.

"The hearings that have been scheduled are only for adoption of the exclusive agricultural zone as part of the zoning ordinance of Tulare county, and do not involve application to any specific property," Olson says.

Attitude of farmers toward the proposed ordinance, as indicated at the three public hearings, will be a strong factor in determining whether or not the county planning commission recommends inclusion of the agricultural zone in the county zoning ordinance, or drops the matter, according to Olson.

Final action - the actual passing of an ordinance setting up the new zone, will be in the hands of the county board of supervisors.

Both Trueblood and Van Houten state that the proposed ordinance "is the best we can do at the present time." They point out that members of the special committee spent many hours of study and that they feel the proposed ordinance will be of value to agriculture.

They urge individual farmers throughout the county to familiarize themselves with provisions of the ordinance, then express their opinions at the upcoming hearings.

The animal, valued at $150, was owned by the J.G. Boswell company.
